Name	Description
Anti-slip	Material that offers an increase coefficient of friction and has the ability to stabilize boxes, rolls or sheets when stack on a pallet.
Basic Weight	The weight in pounds of a ream (500 sheets) of paper cut to 24" x 36".
Coated One Side	Sandwich wraps and basket liners coated on one side with a polyethylene and wax blend for improved heat retention and moisture resistance
Cushing Wrap	Two-ply structure paper / paper with a large honey comb pattern to improve heat retention with the air pockets
Dead Fold	A property of a material that, after being creased or folded, tends to stay to new position.
Dry Wax	The wax is almost 90% saturated into the product and leaves very little surface wax. Dry waxing is best reserved for hot products: hot dogs, hamburgers, tray lining or fast food basket liners, etc.
Grease Proof	Paper that offers superior resistance to the absorption of oil and grease. Paper does not stain
Grease-Resistant Paper	Paper manufactured and treated in such a way to prevent the surface absorption of grease and oil through the paper.
Gusset	The side panel of a bag. Second measurement taken when sizing a bag
Laminate	Paper, Foil or Film materials are bonded together to form a stronger material with improved barrier characteristics.
Laminating	The operation of combining two or more layers of material with an adhesive (paper/aluminium; paper/paper; paper/aluminium/poly.) to provided various barrier properties.
Lip	The cut-out portion at the front of the top opening of a bag; when measuring a bag with a lip, always measure the height from the bottom of the bag to the lip
MVTR	A Measurement of resistance of a material to moisture vapour transmission throw a substrate.
Natural Kraft (Unbleached)	Applies to papers whose colours result from the stock used when no bleach or colouring has been added. In the case of kraft, its natural colour is a tan or light brown.
Opacity	The degree of no-transparency or the relative opaqueness of a given paper.
Pinch Bottom Bags	Any bag with an "edge" bottom that is heat sealed or glued.
Process Printing	Printing process that utilizes four basic colours (cyan, yellow, magenta, black) and halftones
Release	A property referring to the ability of a material to easily separate from a sticky or tacky substance. A release agent such as silicon or quilon is usually employed.
Rewinding	The operation of winding the product from the reel onto a core to produce rolls of the desired width, diameter and tension.
Thermo Foil	Two-ply structure paper / foil with a large honey comb pattern to improve heat retention with the air pockets
Wet Strength Paper	A paper which has extraordinary resistance to rupture or disintegration when saturated with water. Achieved by chemical treatment of the fibres in the pulp or on the paper machine.
Wet Wax	This type of waxing is called surface waxing. The majority of the wax remains on the top of the sheet which makes the surface of the sheet feel wet or very waxy. Wet waxed products can be used anywhere where heat is not an issue: cold cuts, wrapping, meat, pastries, frozen foods, etc. The weights can vary from 5 lbs to 15 lbs of wax, depending on the application or customer's individual requirements.

Paraffin Wax... A Safe and Natural Product

De Luxe is committed to preserving the environment.

We continue to initiate new products and programs designed to minimize our impact on the environment.

Composting represents an important strategy in diverting waste streams from landfills and returning organic content to soils. This process is a crucial component of the recycling strategy designed to reduce North America's reliance upon landfills for solid-waste disposal. What is not widely known is that properly formulated paraffin waxed packaging can be used to produce high quality compost.

Published studies conducted by McGill University (1) and the University of Guelph (2) confirmed that paraffin wax-based coatings are inherently biodegradable and readily decompose under normal outdoor exposure conditions, as well as in a composting process. These studies covered the use of paraffin waxes in the high volume applications of food service wrappers and treated corrugated boxes.

These studies supported previous work done by TNO laboratories (3) showing paraffin waxes and paraffin-based coatings are inherently biodegradable according to the Organization for Economic Cooperation & Development Guidelines. These studies showed greater than 60% degradation after 28 days and near complete degradation after the 84 day test.

Paraffin waxes are unique as coating materials because they provide excellent moisture barrier properties. Since they are not polymers they are biodegradable by nature.

Wax food wraps remain an economical, efficient, and environmentally viable barrier material.
